Center the title "Works Cited" without underlining, bolding, or italicizing it. If there is only one entry, title this page "Work Cited."

MLA recommends URLs or DOI's (when possible) when citing online sources. Copy the location/URL directly from the address bar in the browser window for the source used.

Note: Be sure to include the date of access statement at end of online sources if required by your instructor.

Also, if a source might change, such as with an unstable url, or if it is missing a publication date, add the accessed date statement at the end.

MLA requires only the publisher and not the city of publication.

The 9th edition also does not require sources to have a publication marker (such as "Print" or "Web") at the end of the entry.

Twitter handles should follow the account name in brackets. If the handle is similar to account name, you can omit the handle, if you include the URL in your entry

When possible, use the doi # instead of the URL for articles in a database.

List the title of the source in quotation marks and the title of the container in italics, followed by a comma and the date of publication. If it is an online source, include the URL or DOI and date of access.
